5 THINGS TO KNOW

WELCOME TO METRO.US

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT, REPORTER

You've probably seen the video of Jazmine Headley, the Brooklyn mom who was arrested inside a Human Resources Administration center last Friday. It's tough to watch — officers pull her 1-year-old baby from her hands as she shouts, "They're hurting my son!" — but that's why it's so important, officials say. City council members rallied on Tuesday, calling for justice for Jazmine and pointing to how her experience sheds light on issues within the system. MAYOR AND GOV. ANNOUNCE AMAZON HQ2 COMMITTEE

1 A day before NYC Council holds its first public hearing on the multibillion-dollar Amazon HQ2 project in Long Island City, Mayor Bill de Blasio and Gov. Andrew Cuomo issued a rare joint statement announcing a community advisory committee (CAC) that will focus on planning, neighborhood infrastructure and workforce development. Hosted by the Committee on Economic Development, the first hearing will not be accepting public testimony; however, they will be taking comments via social media that include the hashtag #AmazonAnswersNYC and via a web form. The Wednesday hearing will be available for live viewing at council.nyc.gov. Via Twitter, NYC Council Speaker Corey Johnson emphasized that there will be a separate hearing entirely devoted to comments from the public and made part of the official public record at a later date. While the statement announced a list of participants, according to Crain's New York Business, the committee doesn't take into account some of the project's most ardent critics who refuse to participate. EX-STATE U OFFICIAL GETS PRISON FOR BID RIGGING

2 The former president of the State University of New York's Polytechnic Institute was sentenced to three-and-a-half years in prison on Tuesday for helping to rig the bidding process for a billion-dollar, state-funded development project. Alain Kaloyeros was sentenced by U.S. District Judge Valerie Caproni in Manhattan, who also ordered him to pay a $100,000 fine, according to a spokesman for federal prosecutors in Manhattan. Kaloyeros had been found guilty of fraud and conspiracy by a jury in June following a three-week trial. Attorneys for Kaloyeros, Reid Weingarten and Mike Miller, said in a statement that their client was innocent and would appeal his conviction. "He attempted at every stage to make sure that the people of the state of New York got the right contractor for the right job at the right price," they said. Federal prosecutors had accused Kaloyeros of helping to fix bids for "Buffalo Billion," an economic development project to invest $1 billion to revitalize the area around Buffalo, the state's second-largest city.

VIRGINIA JURY WANTS LIFE SENTENCE FOR NEO-NAZI

4 A Virginia jury on Tuesday sentenced to life in prison a self-described neo-Nazi who killed a woman when he rammed his car into a crowd protesting two days of white supremacist rallies in the college town of Charlottesville. The Charlottesville, Virginia, jury urged a judge to send James Fields, 21, to prison for the rest of his life four days after finding the Ohio man guilty of first-degree murder and nine other crimes for killing Heather Heyer, 32, and injuring 19 people after the "Unite the Right" gathering in August 2017. The event proved a critical moment in the rise of the "alt-right," a loose alignment of fringe groups centered on white nationalism and emboldened by President Donald Trump's 2016 presidential victory. Trump was criticized by the left and right for initially saying there were "fine people on both sides" of a dispute between neo-Nazis and their opponents; subsequent alt-right gatherings failed to draw the crowds of hundreds of people that assembled in Charlottesville. Fields sat impassively, dressed in a light blue sweater and black-rimmed glasses, during Tuesday's sentencing.

STORMY TO PAY NEARLY $300K IN TRUMP LEGAL FEES

5 Adult-film actress Stormy Daniels must pay more than $290,000 to reimburse President Donald Trump for legal fees he spent defending himself in a defamation lawsuit she brought against him over a tweet, a judge ruled on Tuesday. Daniels, whose real name is Stephanie Clifford, lost her defamation lawsuit in October, with a federal judge in Los Angeles saying the president's tweet was protected by the freedom of speech clause of the U.S. Constitution. Following that ruling, Trump's attorneys at a hearing last week requested nearly $800,000 in legal fees and sanctions, but U.S. District Judge James Otero in his latest ruling awarded a fraction of the sum. Otero's ruling awarded Trump most of the legal costs his attorneys had sought, but only $1,000 in sanctions. "The court's order, along with the court's prior order dismissing Stormy Daniels' defamation case against the president, together constitute a total victory for the president, and a total defeat for Stormy Daniels in this case," Charles Harder, an attorney for Trump, said in a statement.

Trump, top Democrats clash on border wall in rare Oval Office fight

Sarah Sanders referred to it as "constructive dialogue."

President Donald Trump openly sparred about government funding with the top two Democratic lawmakers during an Oval Office meeting on Tuesday, throwing into question whether a deal was possible ahead of a deadline later this month.

In a remarkable public argument, the likes of which is seldom seen before cameras, Trump bickered with Senate Democratic Leader Chuck Schumer and House Democratic Leader Nancy Pelosi about funding for the wall he has promised to build on the southern border with Mexico.

"If we don't get what we want, one way or the other — whether it's through you, through a military, through anything you want to call — I will shut down the government," Trump said as the heated argument drew near a close.

"I am proud to shut down the government for border security, Chuck, because the people of this country don't want criminals and people that have lots of problems and drugs pouring into our country," he said before reporters left their ringside seats.

Congress is seeking to finalize spending before some federal government funding expires on Dec. 21. While Trump's fellow Republicans control both the House and the Senate until next month, Democratic support is needed to pass any spending legislation.

Trump has asked Congress for $5 billion for border security, while Schumer and Pelosi said they offered to extend funding at current levels, around $1.3 billion. That is less than the $1.6 billion a bipartisan Senate committee has approved.

The meeting did not last long after reporters were ushered out of the Oval Office. White House spokeswoman Sarah Sanders said in a statement it was a "constructive dialogue" and said Trump was "grateful" the cameras captured him fighting to protect the border.

Back on Capitol Hill, Schumer accused Trump of throwing a tantrum.

"The president showed what he really thinks: He wants to shut down the government," Schumer said.

After the meeting, the Democratic House fundraising arm immediately sent out an email asking supporters for money.

Pelosi, who told reporters she thought the Democrats had left things "in a pretty good place," said she had prayed with Trump during the private session, recounting the biblical story of King Solomon asking God for wisdom.

It was the first time Trump met with Pelosi and Schumer since the Democrats won control of the House of Representatives in Nov. 6 congressional elections — a rocky start to the relationship the White House will have with the opposition party, with which it needs to deal to advance any priorities.

The fight kicked off when Pelosi told Trump that Americans did not want to see a "Trump shutdown," touching a nerve. Trump cut off Pelosi, arguing that he could not advance a funding bill without Democratic votes in the Senate.

"If I needed the votes for the wall in the House, I would have them in one session, it would be done," Trump bragged. REUTERS

Brooklyn mom at center of viral baby-snatching arrest by cops released

A Brooklyn judge ordered Jazmine Headley released from Rikers on Tuesday.

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT
kristin.toussaint@metro.us

Jazmine Headley, the Brooklyn mom who was seen in a video with NYPD officers who pulled her 1-year-old child out of her hands, was released from Rikers Island Tuesday, according to her attorneys.

Lisa Schreibersdorf, executive director of Brooklyn Defender Services, appeared in court Tuesday afternoon to ask that Headley be released from Rikers, where she'd been held since Friday.

Brooklyn Supreme Court Judge Craig Walker granted the services' motion to have Headley, 23, released on her own recognizance.

The move marks a victory in the fight for "Justice for Jazmine" since the video of her forceful arrest went viral.

Earlier on Tuesday, Brooklyn District Attorney Eric Gonzalez dismissed all charges against Headley. She had been charged on Dec. 7 with resisting arrest, acting in a manner injurious to a child, obstructing governmental administration and criminal trespass, according to NYPD.

"Like everyone who watched the arrest of Jazmine Headley, I was horrified by the violence depicted in the video and immediately opened an investigation into this case," Gonzalez said in a statement.

"It is clear to me that this incident should have been handled differently," he continued. "A [Human Resources Administration] officer escalated the situation as Ms. Headley was about to leave the premises, creating an awful scenario of a baby being torn from his mother."

Gonzalez said that the situation "traumatized" Headley and her 1-year-old son, who has "lingering bruising" from the altercation, according to Headley's lawyers. Since the arrest, Headley had been held at Rikers Island on an unrelated warrant from New Jersey.

That warrant, Schreibersdorf said at a Tuesday rally for Headley, stems from an incident three years ago, when she was in a car with someone in possession of stolen credit cards.

The fact that Headley even spent time in Rik-ers is outrageous to many city officials. Headley had been arrested after sitting on the floor at a Brooklyn Human Resources Administration center on Friday, where she had been waiting for four hours to find out why her childcare benefits were cut off.

"The answer to this should not have been police. The answer to this should have been a chair," said State Attorney General-elect Letitia James at the Tuesday rally.

Headley's situation sheds light on larger issues within the benefits system, where many New Yorkers report waiting four or five hours at these service centers.

"It's a short video, two minutes and 26 seconds, but it shows ... what is wrong in our system," New York City Council Speaker Corey Johnson said at the rally. "How disheartening it is to try and receive benefits for which you're entitled, how overflowing these offices are with people who need help and how one incident can escalate so quickly and set off a chain reaction that sends a mother to jail."

Officials have promised to fight for changes concerning HRA wait times and when security officers in those centers call for police and use force.

While at Rikers, Headley had no idea how much attention her case has garnered, her lawyers said, "but [she] is glad that her story may help prevent these things from happening to someone else," tweeted Scott Hechinger, a public defender with Brooklyn Defender Services.

Hechinger and others with the Brooklyn Defender Services launched an official GoFundMe for Headley on Tuesday morning. By Tuesday evening, the GoFundMe had surpassed its goal of $25,000.

Brooklyn Defender Services said that the fundraiser will help pay for her childcare, rent and allow her to get back to "the job that is waiting for her."

Following her release from Rikers Tuesday evening, Headley will need to appear in Mercer County, N.J., on Wednesday. Her lawyers are calling on the Mercer County District Attorney to dismiss her warrant.

Personal injury lawyers see potential issues with legal electric scooters

A personal injury lawyer has some concerns about the new transportation trend.

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT
kristin.toussaint@metro.us

As electric scooters pop up in cities across the country, so too have stories about e-scooter accidents, and that means personal injury lawyers are paying close attention to the new transportation trend.

Electric scooters are currently illegal in New York (both city and state), but city officials are hoping to change that. In November, city council members introduced a package of bills to legalize e-scooters and throttle e-bikes.

But personal injury lawyers say a lot has to be done before e-scooters can take over NYC streets.

"Our highways and sidewalks are not set up to allow for a large influx of low-speed, low-visibility vehicles like electric scooters," said George T. Sink, an attorney at George Sink, P.A. Injury Lawyers, who used to live in New York City. "We will almost certainly see a rise in injuries to scooter riders, to pedestrians, and in car wrecks caused by drivers being surprised by scooters."

Some concerns about electric scooter safety come from the fact that they move more slowly than vehicle traffic and they can also be ridden in an "unexpected way."

"Sometimes these scooters and other vehicles are ridden on sidewalks or parks where cars aren't allowed and pedestrians aren't looking out for fast-moving vehicles," Sink said. "Operators often don't know whether to follow the rules for a car or the rules for a pedestrian, so the operators may make mistakes, too."

GETTY IMAGES

"We will almost certainly see a rise in injuries to scooter riders, to pedestrians, and in car wrecks caused by drivers being surprised by scooters."
George T. Sink, attorney

If you do get into an electric scooter accident, who is liable? Sink said that e-scooter companies like Bird and Lime "create lengthy 'terms of service' contracts that attempt to shift responsibility for using the scooters away from the company and onto the rider," and that riders may not be aware of the responsibility they're taking on every time they get on an electric scooter.

"It's worth consulting an attorney if you were injured after a wreck involving a scooter, e-bike, moped, golf cart or other motorized vehicle," he added. "The laws are changing and you'll likely need legal help to understand who will bear the burden of medical bills, damage to cars or property, and who is to blame for the wreck."

Council Member Rafael Espinal is one official pushing for the legalization of electric scooters in New York City. When asked about personal injury concerns, he said in an email that he understands those who have "legitimate safety concerns about e-scooters," which is why his bill caps e-scooter speeds at 15 mph. "We will also be conducting a pilot program to ensure that we find the safest, most efficient way to integrate e-scooters into city streets," he continued. "Our goal is to provide safe, affordable, low-emissions alternatives [for] New York's commuters, which are especially necessary at a time when our transit system is in crisis and the L train shutdown is just months away.

"Accidents involving e-scooters may grab headlines, but automobiles are still the top threat to people's safety on city streets," Espinal added. "We need to start transitioning away from car culture and invest in public transportation and innovative transit alternatives. That's what this legislation aims to achieve."

Important Knee Arthritis Pain Alert:

Study Finds Updated Treatment Helped Avoid Knee Replacement Surgery For 75% Of Worst Cases At Least 7.3 Years . . .

NYC - What would it be worth to you if… in just 60 minutes… you could finally discover a way to get relief for your knee arthritis pain?

And…

How would it feel if you could wake up tomorrow morning and some... or even all your pain was gone?

And…

Wouldn't it be wonderful to start a brand new life and leave all your pain and suffering behind?

A life where…

…you jump out of bed in the morning, well rested and ready to take on the new day, without pain…

…you don't have to take slow, limping laps around your bedroom just to be able to walk every morning…

…you can go for walks, go up and down stairs and maybe even play sports like tennis and golf again…

…you can finally do all the things and enjoy life (just like everyone else) without constant, nagging pain…

Well… that's exactly what can possibly happen to you if you spend just 60 minutes with us…

…Because that's all it will take for one of our expert doctors to show you what we believe to be the safest, and most effective knee arthritis pain treatment there is…

I know you may find this hard to believe. Just about every one does when we tell them about this… at first.

But it doesn't take long for them to turn from skeptic to raving fan as soon as their pain improves so fast.

Do You Have An Open Mind?

So, I'm not asking you to believe me just yet. All I ask is you approach this and read the rest of this information with an open mind. If you give us a chance, we promise, you won't be disappointed…

Because There is Proof
Real medical proof.

Here it is. A leading Orthopedic Surgeon and knee pain expert was getting excellent results with this non-surgical treatment on his own patients. In fact, this study involved almost 2000 patients followed over 10 years.

And more specifically, he was getting amazing results the way HE was doing this treatment using high tech imaging for precise technique.. just like we do it..

And he wanted to prove... beyond a shadow of a doubt... the results he got .. were not only REAL.. they could most likely work for others just like you.

So he conducted some research, an 11 year project, and is was published in the "Journal of Knee Surgery".... a Real and REPUTABLE medical journal (A copy of this research is available on our website or by mail)

What were his results and what do they mean for your pain?

In this study he found that 75% of the severe knee arthritis pain patients he treated... and were facing knee replacement surgery... did not need to have knee replacement surgery... and were still OK 7.3 years later!

This is incredible news for you - and here's is why...

The patients in this study were Stage 4 knee arthritis. That's the most advanced and worst stage. These are the cases that are usually sent for knee replacement surgery.

These patients had also gone through the common medical treatments like pain and anti-inflammatory pills, physical therapy etc. and all that had failed.

So... these were the WORST cases of which every thing else had failed ... YET, after this treatment, 75% still did not need knee replacement even more than 7 years later.

And it gets better. The study only collected data up to that time. It is pretty safe to say that many may never need surgery.

Bottom line: This study clearly showed this treatment is safe and extremely effective even for even the worst cases.

So, even if you aren't one of the worst cases... imagine what it can do for you.

What IS This Treatment
And How Can You Find Out
If It Can Help You?

As studied as this treatment is.... you may have an "Oh No!" reaction. Why? Because there is a very good chance you have heard of it. You may have even given it a try... and NOT gotten good results.

That's because this treatment is actually pretty common now a days. But... and this is a very big BUT... there is a very specific way to apply this treatment (as done in the study) that makes it so successful. And many are NOT doing it this way.

So... please hear us out. This really might be the answer you are looking for.

Ok... here is the treatment and the full scoop on why it works so well... when done THIS WAY.

The treatment is called "viscosupplementation." It is frequently called, "gel treatment ." Or "joint oil".

In this treatment, a gel is painlessly injected directly into you arthritic joint . This lubricates the joint, reduces friction... and allows more movement without all the inflammation and "grinding" caused by arthritis. This is like putting oil on a rusty hinge. Once the oil is applied, the hinge can move must better.

But here is something you must know: In that research project, all of the procedures were done with highly advanced imaging to guide the injections and make sure the gel got into the joint space area ultra-precisely.

This is EXTREMELY important... because... research also shows that injections done WITHOUT this imaging to guide them... can miss the joint space about one third of the time.

That means, in one third of the injections, the gel wasn't in the joint space and couldn't possibly work!!!

We feel this is why so many people have tried this treatment and DIDN'T get good results like in the patients in this research.

So, if you have already had this treatment and it didn't work... was it done with this advanced medical imaging?

If not... there is still hope.

In fact, there is a very good chance you can still get relief.

Here is why: NYC Pain MD is a medical clinic located at 65 Broadway Suite 1004 New York, NY 10006.

We have physicians who focus in this treatment... and we use the advanced imaging to make sure the treatments are extremely precise and get the best results possible.

In fact, we have a doctor trained at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, Cornell University and even Harvard Medical School.

We have the best... but we also make treatments VERY affordable

Just because we offer the best possible treatments and doctors... doesn't mean we are so expensive only rich people can get our wonderful treatments.

While treatments may be covered by Medicare and some insurances... we also offer pricing plans for as little as $13.57 per week so patients can finally relieve their pain and try to avoid surgery.

We don't want lack of insurance or money to be the reason you continue suffering.

Your Special Invitation…

If you have knee arthritis pain... and are even just a little interested in finding out what this treatment can do for you... we are inviting you to come in for a FREE screening appointment.

Study shows this treatment was successful in 75% of knee arthritis pain sufferers... saving them from surgery for at least 7.3 years. Will it work for you? Find out for FREE

During this screening, you will get to talk to the doctor... ask questions... and find out if you qualify.

We will go over everything with you... and you will breathe a big sigh of relieve finally having real answers and a specific plan to to possibly relieve your pain.

We will leave no stone unturned... and we will help you any way we can.

Please understand this:

This treatment can possibly take away your pain...

No matter how long you've been suffering. It really doesn't matter. It may take a little more time if you've been suffering for years as opposed to a "new" case… but in the end… you can still get tremendous results . . .

No matter how bad or helpless you THINK your case is. Many of our patients thought their case was hopeless , too far gone, for anything to help them. Many of their previous doctors told them that. Well you're NOT. With this treatment… the way our expert doctors do it... there is always hope.

Most of our patients have told us we were their last resort. Last stop before packing it in and completely giving up and submitting to surgery. They soon found out that our treatments made it really easy to get relief… and, best of all…

You Get To See If You Qualify For FREE

That's' right. We want you to see EVERYTHING first hand and to prove to you... without a shadow of a doubt... we have the help for your knee pain that you are desperately wanting. And we want to do it without you spending a penny or risking anything to find out.

That's why we are offering you this free screening.

So my big question for you is – is the opportunity to wake up tomorrow morning… and every other morning for the rest of your life… with less pain… worth the 60 minutes it will take to be evaluated?

What else could you possibly do with that same 60 minutes that could have such a profound impact on the rest of you and your family's lives?

You know, it's really disappointing to me that so many people just go on living with pain when you don't have to. So many of patients tell us how they used to be in pain… just about every day.

They were is so much pain... they were grumpy and miserable all the time. They hated work. They're relationships were strained. Life was just one big struggle Now that they've discovered what we will reveal to you at your free screening… all that's changed…

Work and family have become rewarding and fun. Life is so much easier and better… in so many ways… without the pain. Finally, things start falling into place the way you always thought they would.

One of the best things or physicians and staff hear is "Hey doc since starting this program I've lost 17 pounds because now that I can finally move around pain-free the weight just keeps coming off!"

Which one of those amazing things I just mentioned would you like to happen to you… right now.

Maybe it's none of the things I've mentioned. But, you do have hopes and dreams. We all do. And pain robs you of the opportunity to live out those hopes and dreams. Robs you of the life you really and desperately want… and deserve.

Whatever YOUR personal hopes and dreams are…They are all possible if you take action… right now.

All you have to do is give this a chance and schedule for the screening . But then again…

What's also possible is that your pain starts getting worse. And that happens to so many people from just doing nothing.

Taking action may seem like a little work… or… it may even be a little scary for you – but not taking actions is almost always worse. The eight most dangerous words to your future, your health, and your hopes and dreams just may be…

It Will Just Get Better All By Itself!

Fact is... it may only get worse.

Here Is How To Get Your Free Screening...

Just call us at 877 380 8537 and tell the scheduling coordinator you want your free screening. If you are one of the first 50, it is 100% free. No obligation or strings attached.

There is NOTHING to pay for and you will NOT be stressed in any way . We don't ever do that. . You see, is not uncommon for us to get over 100 new patient calls in a single day.

Most are from word of mouth. But we wanted to open up this opportunity to as many arthritis pain sufferers as possible.

But because we get so many calls... we can only take 50 from what you are reading this month.

You have absolutely zero to lose and possibly everything to gain. But due to high call volume, we suggest you call now. 877 380 8537

Google has 'no plans' to launch Chinese search engine: CEO

Sundar Pichai spoke in front of Congress Tuesday.

Google has "no plans" to relaunch a search engine in China, though it is continuing to study the idea, Chief Executive Sundar Pichai told a U.S. congressional panel on Tuesday amid increased scrutiny of big tech firms.

Lawmakers and Google employees have raised concerns the company would comply with China's internet censorship and surveillance policies if it re-enters the Asian nation's search engine market.

Google's main search platform has been blocked in China since 2010, but the Alphabet Inc. unit has been attempting to make new inroads into the country, which has the world's largest number of smartphone users.

"Right now, there are no plans to launch search in China," Pichai told the U.S. House of Representatives Judiciary Committee.

But he added that internally, Google has "developed and looked at what search could look like. We've had the project underway for a while. At one point, we've had over 100 people working on it is my understanding."

Pichai said there are no current discussions with the Chinese government. He vowed that he would be "fully transparent" with policymakers if the company brings search products to China.

In a letter in August to U.S. lawmakers, Pichai said providing such a search engine would give "broad benefits" to China but that it was unclear whether Google could launch the service there.

A Chinese government official, speaking on the condition of anonymity, told Reuters last month that it was unlikely Google would get clearance to launch a search service in 2019.

Pichai did not say what steps Google would take to comply with Chinese laws if it re-entered the market.

Under questioning from Democratic Rep. David Cicilline, Pichai said he would be "happy to engage" to discuss legislation that would empower the Federal Trade Commission to address discriminatory conduct online.

Cicilline told Pichai it was "hard for me to imagine that you could operate in the Chinese market under the current government framework and maintain a commitment to universal values, such as freedom of expression and personal privacy."

The company's rivals in shopping and travel searches have long complained about being demoted in Google search results.

"We don't engage in partisan activities."
Sundar Pichai, Google CEO

Much of the House hearing focused on Republican concerns that Google's search results are biased against conservatives and that the company had sought to influence the outcome of the 2016 presidential election.

Democrats rejected that claim as "fantasy," and at least one said the search results highlighted more conservative voices.

Pichai said the search engine attempts to help people register to vote or find a polling place, but rejected assertions the company paid for Latino voters' transportation to polls in some states.

"We don't engage in partisan activities," Pichai told the panel.

Gunman kills at least four in French Christmas market, flees

The gunman, Chekatt Cherif, had been on an intelligence services watch list.

A gunman on a security watch list killed at least four people and wounded at least 11 others near a picturesque Christmas market in the historic French city of Strasbourg on Tuesday evening before fleeing.

With France still on high alert after a wave of attacks commissioned or inspired by Islamic State militants since early 2015, the counter-terrorism prosecutor has opened an investigation.

Amid fast-moving, confusing scenes it was not clear if the suspect, identified by police as Strasbourg-born Chekatt Cherif, 29, had been cornered by commandos or had slipped the dragnet.

Medics at the scene and police sources told journalists four people had been killed. But in a statement, the local prefecture was still saying two people had died.

The attack began at about 8 p.m. as stallholders prepared to close down and the city's restaurants filled up. Bystanders were swiftly ushered into nearby shops.

"There was confusion initially but they locked the front doors pretty soon after the gunshots," said U.S. citizen Elizabeth Osterwisch, who was sheltering on the top floor of the Galeries Lafayette department store. "They moved us several times, eventually settling on the place with the most protection."

European Parliament lawmaker Emmanuel Maurel said he had heard the shots.

"From my hotel window I saw passersby dragging someone who was injured and onlookers panicking," he tweeted. "Soldiers and police have cordoned off the area. We're being told to stay in the hotel."

A source close to the operation said the suspect had been cornered and shots had been fired. But an hour or so later, a police source said he was still on the run.

The European Parliament, which is sitting in Strasbourg this week, was put on lockdown.

Strasbourg lies on the west bank of the Rhine River. On the opposite side, German police tightened border controls, officials said.

Interior Minister Christophe Castaner said the gunman was known to security services, and the local prefecture said he was on an intelligence services watch list.

A Reuters reporter was among 30 to 40 people being held in the basement of a supermarket for their own safety, waiting for police to clear the area. Lights were switched off and bottles of water handed out.

Security was tight this year for the Christmas market, popular with visitors to the city's old quarter, with its Gothic cathedral and half-timbered houses.

Unauthorized vehicles were excluded from surrounding streets during opening hours and checkpoints were set up on bridges and access points to search pedestrians' bags.

The Paris prosecutor said the motive for the attack was not known. No one immediately claimed responsibility but the U.S.-based Site intelligence group, which monitors jihadist websites, said Islamic State supporters were celebrating.

Sources familiar with the police operation said the suspect's home had been raided earlier in the day in connection with a robbery during the summer, but he was not found there. REUTERS

GETTING SHORTCHANGED BY THE MTA

I agree wholeheartedly with Bernadette about refilling MetroCards. In fact, I would go further and say that under "Other Amount" on the machine you should be allowed to put any amount on a card — e.g., if you have an odd amount like $1.74 left on the card, you should be able to put just $1.01 on it to top the value up to one fare. After all, the odd amount is caused by the bonus the MTA gives when refilling a card. But if you have to forfeit the odd amount left over on the card, what is the point of giving a bonus? It's like giving with one hand and taking away with the other.

A NOTE ABOUT METROCARDS

There are a lot of options on the MetroCard vending machines. Check them all out when you go to refill your card! Eventually, you will find an option that works. You can add amounts that add up to a single ride ($2.75) unless you need an amount under five cents — i.e., you can add $1.10 but NOT $1.13. So you can make it where maybe you lose just four cents.

Everything you need to know about breaking your lease agreement in New York City

It may be harder than you imagined.

PAT KING
patrick.king@metro.us

Renting an apartment in New York City can be a full-contact sport. For instance, what are the rules you need to know before breaking your lease agreement? We spoke with Edward Deignan, a New York City-based attorney who specializes in representing tenants, to learn everything you should know before breaking your lease agreement.

What are some things that tenants should consider before breaking their lease agreement?
Within New York City, the most important consideration, if you are thinking that you might need to break your lease, is whether or not you are rent-regulated. By that, I mean rent-controlled or rent-stabilized. The reason for this is that if you are typically living in an apartment that is below the market rate, or even if you are paying market rate, the landlord has other incentives to want you out. As a result, the landlord is not likely to give you a hard time about breaking your lease.

If you are not living in a rent-regulated apartment, it's more complicated. The reason being, you may have signed a lease. Rents are dropping a little, in my experience, because of new construction — especially high-end apartment buildings — and the landlord may not want to let you out of your lease because the landlord would have to re-rent the apartment for less money. If that's the case, you would [want to] go looking for reasons that the landlord would want you out. I am currently helping some people who are having a bad bedbug problem in Manhattan. The landlord has agreed to let them out of their lease because of this bedbug infestation. If you don't have something like this as leverage, it can be pretty difficult for the landlord to let you out. Sometimes leases have penalty provisions written in [whereby] if you break the lease, you pay a penalty to the landlord. If the lease doesn't [have a provision], the landlord, technically speaking, has the right to hold you to the terms and make you pay the monthly rent through the end of the lease.

It can be pretty onerous. The law changed for residential tenants a few years ago, making it much more difficult for tenants to get out of leases.

Will landlords consider things like debilitating illnesses when breaking your lease?
That's a very difficult situation and it happens more often than you would think. Let's say you are going into a nursing home. You've had an accident and some surgery and now you're going into a nursing home. The question becomes, do you think you will ever be able to return to your apartment? If you think you cannot return to your apartment, you can contact your landlord or have an attorney contact your landlord to explain the circumstances.

Let's say it's a walk-up apartment and you think that after your rehabilitation, you will not be able to climb stairs very easily. If you find that you cannot return to your apartment, most landlords are going to have a little heart. Many landlords — I won't say most — will see the practical side of the situation and say, "Sure, how soon can you get out?"

"Mortal Engines" revolves around a world where cities travel on wheels. UNIVERSAL PICTURES

Why Peter Jackson let his protégé direct 'Mortal Engines'

Christian Rivers oversaw the blockbuster adaptation of Philip Reeve's novel.

GREGORY WAKEMAN
Gregory.Wakeman@metro.us

When Peter Jackson first picked up Philip Reeve's novel "Mortal Engines," he had no intention of turning it into a movie.

Instead, as an avid reader, he was just looking for another book to dive into. But once he'd put it down, Jackson was so enthralled by the dystopian tale, about a future where cities are on wheels and fight for scraps, that he just assumed another mainstream director had purchased the movie rights.

"I didn't even think the book rights would be available, because when you come to something that late you just imagine someone else would have them," Jackson tells Metro. "I just wanted to know who had the screen rights. I was intrigued to know who was going to turn it into a film. Was it going to be Spielberg? Or Paul Greengrass? Because I knew it would make such a cool film."

Hera Hilmar as Hester Shaw in "Mortal Engines." MARK POKORNY/UNIVERSAL PICTURES

When Jackson found out no one had the rights, he immediately jumped at the chance to purchase them.

"I was like, 'Oh God!' Because I am imagining this amazing movie in my head as I read the book. So I thought, 'I'm going to be the one to make this film, then.'"

As his work on "The Lord Of The Rings" and "The Hobbit" proves, Jackson is quite adept at turning a book into a film. But it turns out there is one key reason to this success.

"The key to adapting is remembering what it is about that book that you loved the first time you read it," he explains. "Because by the time you write the script, you have read it 20 times and you have broken it down and the book is no longer the thing you read the first time. You want to make sure that it is the thing you fell in love with."

Jackson originally intended to direct "Mortal Engines" himself; however, ahead of writing the script, the Academy Award-winning filmmaker had a change of heart. He decided that it was the perfect time for his protégé Christian Rivers, who had worked alongside Jackson for the past 25 years — on the likes of "Braindead," "Heavenly Creatures," "The Lovely Bones," "King Kong" and every installment of "The Lord Of The Rings" and "The Hobbit" — to make his feature-film debut.

"We wrote the script for Christian to direct. I assumed I would direct it, because that is what I always do," Jackson says. "But during 'The Hobbit' we had Christian doing second unit direction and he has been with us for 25 years, he is part of our filmmaking family.

"He had become a really great second unit director, overseeing these complex action sequences with the dwarves and the barrels down the river," he adds. "I knew that 'Mortal Engines' would follow 'The Hobbit' and that Christian wanted to go off and do a feature film. I didn't want anyone else to do a feature film with him. It felt wrong. He [had been] part of our team for so long."

Jackson knew that Rivers was not only eager to make his directorial debut, but because of the amount of visual-effects work he'd done on Jackson's past films, he had the perfect skill set to work wonders with "Mortal Engines," too.

"It was the right time. I knew he would do a fantastic job," says Jackson. "And I would much rather he direct it instead of me if it meant him not going off and doing films for someone else."

"Mortal Engines" opens in theaters on Dec. 14.

If the Mets, Yankees and Marlins agree to a massive three-team trade, we could see the likes of J.T. Realmuto (left), Noah Syndergaard (center) and Miguel Andujar (right) moved. GETTY IMAGES

What would Mets-Yankees-Marlins blockbuster look like?

A blockbuster has been in the works that could see names like Noah Syndergaard, J.T. Realmuto and Miguel Andujar on the move.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

If the first day of Major League Baseball's Winter Meetings was too slow for you, the prospect of a blockbuster deal involving the New York Yankees, Mets and Miami Marlins provided plenty of consolation.

It was reported late Monday night that a three-team trade was in the works that would see the Mets land All-Star catcher J.T. Realmuto from the Marlins and the Yankees come away with Noah Syndergaard. In order to facilitate the deal, the Yankees would be willing to part with AL Rookie of the Year runner-up Miguel Andujar.

Talks slowed significantly on Tuesday night, but the prospect of the deal was not dead at press time. However, the prospect of the Mets doing a straight deal with the Marlins that could include either Brandon Nimmo, Amed Rosario, Michael Conforto or Syndergaard is also a possibility.

Going back to the Yankees, giving up such a promising youngster like Andujar would be a sizable loss to contend with, but it shows just how much the Yankees want to add one more big arm to the rotation.

After acquiring James Paxton from the Seattle Mariners, the Yankees lost out on Patrick Corbin and Nathan Eovaldi in free agency. They've been linked to the likes of Syndergaard and Cleveland Indians ace Corey Kluber to join an already-strong rotation that features Paxton, Luis Severino, Masahiro Tanaka and CC Sabathia.

The Mets' latest-known stance on Syndergaard saw general manager Brodie Van Wagenen allude to the fact that they would not trade the 26-year-old right-hander.

"We're not going to create a hole by filling another," he said at Robinson Cano and Edwin Diaz's introductory press conference last week.

Now, Van Wagenen's possible willingness to include Syndergaard in these talks, which have lingered since last season, might indicate that the organization has doubts about either his health or future. To paraphrase the great Branch Rickey, they could be looking to sell him a year early rather than a year late.

Should the Mets understandably not want to part with the fire-balling Syndergaard, Zack Wheeler would likely be the leading candidate to be shipped to the Bronx.

Almost out of nothing, Wheeler has developed into a prominent arm in the Mets pitching rotation after a monster finish to his 2018 season. After injuries and complications from Tommy John surgery stalled his development for four years, the 28-year-old went 8-1 with a 1.59 ERA in his final 10 starts of the season.

Previous talks between the Mets and Marlins regarding Realmuto saw Miami ask for one of those three young, MLB-ready field players.

Realmuto would fill the Mets' largest area of concern behind the plate, as the organization is poised to move on from the ineffective duo of Travis d'Arnaud and Kevin Plawecki. D'Arnaud was believed to be the centerpiece of a trade with the Toronto Blue Jays back in 2012 that sent R.A. Dickey up North, but the add-in that was Syndergaard turned out to be the largest prize.

If Van Wagenen were able to acquire Realmuto and keep Syndergaard to keep the rotation intact, the Mets would continue their ascent as one of the favorites to win the NL East. The only way that might happen, though, is if the Mets keep the Yankees out of the deal.

HEART TO HEART 2

NO PRESSURE, NO JUDGMENT

HIV RESEARCH STUDY

We understand HIV can be a roller coaster and it is difficult to stay on HIV medications and go to medical appointments. The Heart to Heart 2 Program addresses these issues without judgment or pressure. We get it.

We are looking for people who are struggling with HIV medications and HIV care for a research project conducted by the NYU Meyers College of Nursing.

You must be between the ages of 18 – 65 years old, living with HIV, living in the NYC metropolitan area, and African American/Black or Latino/Hispanic to participate.

Contact us at 212-992-6670 for more information and to see if you qualify for the study.
Compensation is provided and your participation is confidential.

Approved by the NYU School of Medicine
IRB #s15-01480 PI: Marya Gwadz, PhD

Are you HIV+ and experiencing discomfort related to Peripheral Neuropathy?

You May Be ELIGIBLE To Participate If You Are:

- HIV+/AIDS
- Experiencing pain, numbness, aching, burning, or "pins and needles" sensation in the lower legs and/or feet for 2 months or greater
- 18 years of age or older

The study involves testing the use of Acupuncture/Moxibustion, a traditional Chinese medicine therapy for the relief of lower extremity neuropathy in persons with HIV/AIDS.

As a participant, you will be asked to attend one baseline session, 12 Acupuncture/Moxibustion sessions and three follow-up sessions, maintain a symptom diary and complete questionnaires.

There is no medication given as part of this study.

Compensation: You will be compensated for your time. If you attend all your sessions, you will receive a total of $220. You will also receive a round trip Metrocard at the end of each session to cover your travel expenses.
